INTRODUCTION

In this survey, some questions will be about health, relationships, and experiences relating to sex. It will also ask some other details such as gender, ethnicity and employment. A "Prefer not to say" option will be available for you to select, if you wish. Ipsos is running the survey and collecting such data in order to understand how the COVID-19 pandemic, and public health response to it have affected health, relationships and sex. The research team will use the information to help sexual and reproductive health service providers respond to changing needs. You can take part no matter what your background or experience is. There are no 'right' or 'wrong' answers and we are not judging the choices people make; we are simply trying to understand how things have changed and why.

Ipsos has been commissioned by University of Glasgow, University College London (UCL) and London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (LSHTM) to carry out this research. These researchers are part of the team that has conducted the National Survey of Sexual Attitudes and Lifestyles (Natsal). Natsal has taken place since 1990, and to date, has interviewed >45,000 participants (www.natsal.ac.uk).

If you choose to take part, you may be asked to complete three surveys over the next 18 months. Each will take about 20 minutes to complete.

Participation is completely voluntary. Some of the questions may feel quite personal. Please answer them as accurately as you can. You can skip questions if you do not wish to answer them and you can stop the survey at any time. Your survey answers will be combined with the answers from all other participants and used for social research reporting, and your personal data will be held for no longer than 18 months. Your personal data will be held by Ipsos MORI for up to 18 months in order to contact you for up to two follow up surveys. University of Glasgow, University College London (UCL) and London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (LSHTM) will have access to anonymized survey data which does not contain any personal identifiers such as name or date of birth. The exception is if you are asked a question about whether you are willing for your personal details to be given to University of Glasgow, University College London (UCL) and London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (LSHTM) for a possible in depth follow up interview. The research team would contact you within 3 months and hold your contact details for up to 6 months. You can choose whether or not to give permission for this.

We will keep the information confidential and store it securely in a password-protected electronic format. The data will be used for research and learning, and deposited securely at the UK data archive (https://www.data-archive.ac.uk/). It will not be possible to identify you from this data.

You can read the project specific privacy notice here.

CONSENT

[Ask all]
Single answer
Do you accept the collection of personal sexual and health, gender and ethnicity related data?

1.   Yes, I accept
2.   No, I do not accept [STOP interview]

Demographics questions (first section)

GENSEXINT

[Ask all]

The first set of questions ask about you. This information will help us understand how people's experiences vary.

We will be using the term 'lockdown'. This was when the government instructed people to only leave their houses for essential purposes (e.g. shopping, exercise, medical needs). In Britain this date was the 23rd March 2020.

Information, advice and support on the topics covered in this survey can be found HERE [Thank you screens].

GenIDx

[ASK IF Gender_NONBINARY=3 (Prefer not to say)]

The next questions are about your gender and how your sex was described at birth. We ask these to make sure you are asked the right questions throughout the rest of the survey.

Please describe your gender identity.

[Open text: up to 150 characters]

Sexbirth

[Ask all]

Single answer

Not all people feel that the sex they were described as at birth matches how they feel about themselves today.

So, to check, at birth, were you described as...

1. Male
2. Female
3. Prefer not to say

Genderidentity (derived variable for use in scripting)

If gender=male (1) and sexbirth=male (1) == [derived variable] genderidentity=1 (cisgender man)

If gender=female (2) and sexbirth=female (2) == [derived variable] genderidentity=2 (cisgender woman)

If gender=female (2) and sexbirth=male (1) == [derived variable] genderidentity=3 (trans person)

If gender=male (1) and sexbirth=female (2) == [derived variable] genderidentity=3 (trans person)

If gender=in another way (3) == [derived variable] genderidentity=3 (trans person)

If SexBirth= prefer not to say (4) == [derived variable] genderidentity=4 (missing)

Sexual history and partners

SHIntro

The next questions are about your sexual experiences. Some of these questions may feel quite personal, but they are important for us to understand the impact of Covid-19 on people's sex lives.

You will be asked questions about your sexual experiences since Covid-19, but first you will be asked about your sexual experiences before Covid-19 to provide context.

As a reminder, your participation is entirely voluntary and the answers people provide will be combined so that no individuals can be identified. You can skip any questions you do not want to answer by selecting 'prefer not to say'.

EverSexExp1

[ASK ALL WHO REACH THE END OF THE SURVEY]

Thank you for taking the time to complete this survey.

We appreciate your time in helping us understand health, sex and relationships during COVID-19. The results of this survey will be made available via www.natsal.ac.uk.

The research team would like to understand how relationships and sex change over time and may wish to send you a further, similar survey.

You do not have to decide now whether you would actually do the survey, just whether it would be OK for a member of the research team to contact you about it.

ReConSQ

[ASK ALL WHO REACH THE END OF THE SURVEY]
